Reuters/Ipsos Poll: Biden's First 100 Days

President Joe Biden enjoys higher approval ratings than Donald Trump did during his first 100 days

Topline Findings

Washington, DC, April 29, 2021 – Today marks President Joe Biden's 100th day in office. With it comes a reflection from Americans on how he has handled the nation's issues, courtesy of the latest Reuters/Ipsos poll. Thirty-nine percent of Americans believe the country is moving in the right direction, a sentiment primarily driven by Biden's Democratic base (68%), followed by independents (30%). Respondents are most likely to believe that the pandemic (58%) and economy (38%) are moving in the right direction. On the other hand, only 23% of Americans believe immigration is going well, with 53% saying it is off on the wrong track. Democrats and Republicans disagree regarding national politics, with 53% of Democrats saying they are moving in the right direction while 77% of Republicans believe they are off on the wrong track.

Overall, approval of Joe Biden's performance in office thus far stands at 55%. By comparison, at the end of former president Donald Trump's 100 days in office, his approval rating stood at 44%. Comparing Americans' approval of Biden's handling of the nation's issues to Trump's, Biden performed better than Trump in his first 100 days on the economy (52% for Biden versus 49% for Trump), the environment (54% versus 38%), the effort he is making to unite the country (56% versus 45%), and the way he treats people like me (56% versus 40%). Conversely, Trump fared better on international trade (45% for Trump versus 43% for Biden), taxation (46% versus 45%), and immigration (46% versus 42%). Biden was then also rated on some more recent issues, namely the pandemic/COVID-19 (65% approval), along with racial inequality (51%) and gun violence (46%).

Finally, healthcare (16%), the economy (13%), and terrorism (11%) were the most pressing issues around the time of Trump's 100-day mark. At this point in Biden's presidency, the economy (20%) continues to be important, but immigration (15%) and public health (13%) have also risen to the top.

These are the findings of an Ipsos poll conducted between April 12-16, 2021. For this survey, a sample of 4,423 adults age 18+ from the continental U.S., Alaska, and Hawaii was interviewed online in English. The poll has a credibility interval of plus or minus 1.7 percentage points for all respondents.

PUBLIC POLL FINDINGS AND METHODOLOGY

About the Study

These are some of the findings of an Ipsos poll conducted between April 12-16, 2021 on behalf of Thomson Reuters. For this survey, a sample of 4,423 adults age 18+ from the continental U.S., Alaska, and Hawaii was interviewed online in English. The sample includes 2,070 Democrats, 1,575 Republicans, and 468 Independents.

The sample was randomly drawn from Ipsos' online panel, partner online panel sources, and "river sampling" and does not rely on a population frame in the traditional sense. Ipsos uses fixed sample targets, unique to each study, in drawing a sample. After a sample has been obtained from the Ipsos panel, Ipsos calibrates respondent characteristics to be representative of the U.S. Population using standard procedures such as raking-ratio adjustments. The source of these population targets is U.S. Census 2018 American Community Survey data. The sample drawn for this study reflects fixed sample targets on demographics. Posthoc weights were made to the population characteristics on gender, age, race/ethnicity, region, and education.

Statistical margins of error are not applicable to online non-probability polls. All sample surveys and polls may be subject to other sources of error, including but not limited to coverage error and measurement error. Where figures do not sum to 100, this is due to the effects of rounding. The precision of Ipsos online polls is measured using a credibility interval. In this case, the poll has a credibility interval of plus or minus 1.7 percentage points for all respondents. Ipsos calculates a design effect (DEFF) for each study based on the variation of the weights, following the formula of Kish (1965). This study had a credibility interval adjusted for design effect of the following (n=4,423, DEFF=1.5, adjusted Confidence Interval=+/- 3.2 percentage points).

The poll also has a credibility interval of plus or minus 2.5 percentage points for Democrats, plus or minus 2.8 percentage points for Republicans, and plus or minus 5.2 percentage points for Independents.
